Education in the future

Education is another area of social life in which information technology is changing the way we communicate. Today's college students may not simply sit in a lecture or a library to learn about their field. Through their computers and the wonders of virtual reality they can participate in lifelike simulated experiences. Consider the following scenario of the future of education made possible through developments in information technology.

For children over the age of 10, daily attendance at schools is not compulsory. Some of the older children attend school only once or twice weekly to get tutorial support or instruction from a teacher. For the most part, pupils are encouraged to work online from home. Students must complete a minimum number of study hours per year; however, they may make up these hours by studying at home at times that suit their family schedule. They can log on early or late in the day and even join live classes in other countries. In order to ensure that each student is learning adequately, computer software will automatically monitor the number of hours a week each student studies on-line as well as that students' learning materials and assessment activities. Reports will be available for parents and teachers. The software can then identify the best learning activities and condition for each individual student and generate similar activities. It can also identify areas of weak achievement and produce special programs adjusted to the students' needs.

1. What is the topic of the passage?

A. The effect of information technology on education.

B. students don't have to go to school any more.

Read the passage and choose the best answer.

It is always thought that women are the second class in the citizen, and men are the first. There is not real equality of opportunity for men and women. Years ago, people were living in a man-dominated society. Women had to obey their husbands and fathers absolutely. Women's place was in the kitchen and women's work was household. In many places, women were not even allowed to go to school. Women had no rights, even the right to choose a husband for them-selves. Men usually occupied high positions in society so they thought they were more intelligent and important than women. Men considered women their property. Sometimes, women were mistreated by their husbands and suffered this as a fate. Many parents did not even want to have female children.

Thanks to the women' liberation movement, women have nowadays proved that they are equal to men on every aspect. An average woman has weaker muscles than an average man but she may be as intelligent as him. Women can do everything that men can, and women can do one thing that no man can: they produce children.

Read the passage and then choose the best answer for each following question.

Psychologists are interested in the reasons why some people like taking part in risky sports. When they studied people who were learning to jump from a plane with a parachute, they found that parachutists' bodies produced large amounts of two hormones, adrenaline and nor adrenaline, just before they made their jump.

These hormones help to prepare us for any sudden activity. Adrenaline increases the heart rate and provides more sugar for the muscles, while nor does adrenaline make us react more quickly. However, nor adrenaline also stimulates apart of the brain which controls feelings of pleasure. Some psychologists have concluded that it is a feeling of pleasure caused by this hormone which makes certain people want to participate in dangerous sports.

Another possible reason is the level of arousal in part of the brain. According to some psychologists, the brain tries to maintain a certain level of arousal. They believe that people who normally have a low level of arousal look for excitement and new experiences in order to stimulate themselves, whereas people who usually have a high level of arousal try to avoid risks and unfamiliar situations in order not to become overexcited. If the psychologists are right, people with a low arousal are the ones who enjoy participating in dangerous sports and activities.

It is thought that people with low levels of arousal have a slower-reacting nervous system than people with higher arousal levels. It may therefore be possible to find out your level of arousal by testing your nervous system. A quick way of doing this is to put some lemon juice on your tongue. If you produce a lot of saliva, your nervous system has been affected by the lemon and so you probably have a high level of arousal; if you produce little of saliva, you probably have a low arousal level. If you have a low level, you might enjoy taking part in risky sports. However, this does not mean that you have to try parachuting!

66. Why did the parachutists' bodies produce a lot of adrenaline and nor adrenaline before they jumped from a plane?

- A. This is a natural reaction which helps to prepare one for sudden activity.
- B. Because they had high arousal levels.
- C. It is a natural reaction which guards them against the effects of accidents.
- D. Because they had taken drugs which led to the production of these two hormones.

67. What two possible reasons are given for some people's desire to participate in dangerous sports?

- A. A lack of common sense, and a high level of arousal.
- B. A low level of arousal, and an inborn desire for adventure.
- C. The pleasure that results from the production of nor adrenaline, and a low level of arousal.
- D. A desire to show off, and a lack of common sense.

68. What does the brain try to maintain, according to some psychologists?

- A. A high temperature.
- B. A low temperature.
- C. A certain level of arousal.
- D. A sense of safety.

69. Why do psychologists believe that people with a high level of arousal try to avoid danger?

- A. Because they already have the level of excitement which the brain tries to maintain.
- B. Because they are more aware of the dangers involved.
- C. Because they already have enough of the two hormones, adrenaline and nor adrenaline.
- D. Because they would not be able to cope with accidents.

70. What is shown by putting lemon juice on your tongue?

- A. It shows that you have a high level of arousal if no saliva is produced.
- B. It indicates your level of arousal by amount of saliva that is produced.
- C. It can indicate whether your saliva is more acidic or more alkaline.
- D. It is a good test of your sense of taste.

71. What kinds of substances are adrenaline and nor adrenaline?

- A. Subatomic particles.
- B. Minerals.
- C. Vitamins.
- D. Hormones.

72. What substances is thought to stimulate the brain to make us feel pleasure?

- A. Adrenaline.
- B. Nor adrenaline.
- C. Lemon juice.
- D. Manganese dioxide.

73. Which of the following does adrenaline do?

- A. It weakens the muscles.
- B. It makes people afraid.
- C. It makes the heart beat more quickly.
- D. It makes the heart beat more slowly.

74. Where were the parachutists when, according to the passage, they produced large amount of the two hormones?

- A. On an airplane
- B. In the air
- C. On the ground
- D. At sea

75. According to some psychologists, what kind of people try to avoid unfamiliar situations?

- A. People who do not like lemon juice.
- B. People who have a low hormone content.
- C. People who normally have a low level of arousal.
- D. People who normally have a high level of arousal.

ĐỀ THI GỒM 80 CÂU; TỪ QUESTION 1 ĐẾN QUESTION 80

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions from 1 to 10

A number of factors related to the voice reveal the personality of the speaker.

The first is the broad area of communication, which includes imparting information by use of language, communicating with a group or an individual and specialized communication through performance. A person conveys thoughts and ideas through choice of words, by a tone of voice that is pleasant or unpleasant, gentle or harsh, by the rhythm that is inherent within the language itself, and by speech rhythms that are flowing and regular or uneven and hesitant, and finally, by the pitch and melody of the utterance. When speaking before a group, a person's tone may indicate uncertainty or fright, confidence or calm. At interpersonal levels, the tone may reflect ideas and feelings over and above the words chosen, or may belie them.

Here the participant's tone can consciously or unconsciously reflect intuitive sympathy or antipathy, lack of concern or interest, fatigue, anxiety, enthusiasm or excitement, all of which are usually discernible by the acute listener. Public performance is a manner of communication that is highly specialized with its own techniques for obtaining effects by voice and /or gesture. The motivation derived from the text, and in the case of singing, the music, in combination with the performer's skills, personality, and ability to create empathy will determine the success of artistic, political, or pedagogic communication.

Second, the voice gives psychological clues to a person's self-image, perception of others, and emotional health. Self-image can be indicated by a tone of voice that is confident, pretentious, shy, aggressive, outgoing, or exuberant, to name only a few personality traits. Also the sound may give a clue to the facade or mask of that person, for example, a shy person hiding behind an overconfident front. How a speaker perceives the listener's receptiveness, interest, or sympathy in any given conversation can drastically alter the tone of presentation, by encouraging or discouraging the speaker. Emotional health is evidenced in the voice by free and melodic sounds of the happy, by constricted and harsh sound of the angry, and by dull and lethargic qualities of the depressed.
